TELEWORK IN ARIZONA MEANS BUSINESS

Telework in Arizona is working for Arizona businesses. CEOs and top managers have found that it helps reduce office space and makes employees more productive. Local studies show that teleworkers have higher morale and are more likely to stay with an organization that allows them to telework.

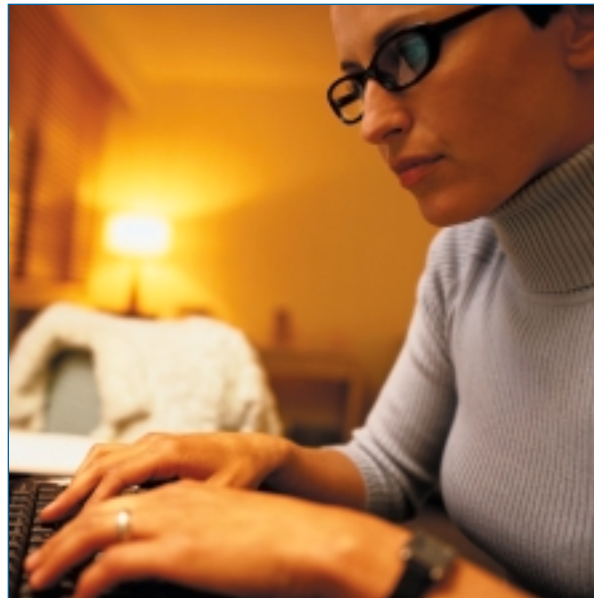

Now, Arizona's Governor wants to recognize your efforts and the many positive results that telework has brought to your company, employees, and local community.

The Governor has joined forces with Valley Metro in Phoenix and the Pima Association of Governments in Tucson to form the Governor's Telework Partnership— a program that recognizes Arizona companies who have embraced telework. Setting the pace, these companies, like yours, provide leadership and raise awareness about telework as a flexible work option.

We invite your organization to join the Governor's Telework Partnership and be recognized for your positive and resourceful way of doing business.

You can join the Governor's Telework Partnership by saying "yes" to the following:

- 1. Does our organization have employees who regularly telework?
- 2. Can we let our employees know about on-going telework opportunities at our company?
- 3. Will we have one or more of the following in place as part of our commitment to telework?
 - ▶ Selection or criteria process for choosing teleworkers;
 - ▶ A Teleworker and supervisor agreement;
 - ▶ Ongoing training for teleworkers and supervisors.

YOUR NEXT STEP
